

Institute for the Study of the African American Child (ISAAC)

*Wayne State University College of Education
Detroit, Michigan
www.coe.wayne.edu/ISAAC*

Round Table on African American Education

It's Time for a Plan To Guide African American Children's Journey Through School

The Situation The Solution The Strategy

Sunday, October 26
9:00 A.M. – 1:30 P.M.

This roundtable on African American education is the second gathering of a community of scholars whose focus is on closing the academic achievement gap. Come to hear a discussion of Best Practices for teaching African American children. Come for a discussion of the Plan to fight for equal educational resources and outcomes for African American children. There will be opportunities for audience dialogue and an opportunity to join online communities and become an ISAAC Fellow.

The Situation

James C. Young, Ed.D., Professor Clark Atlanta University
Moderator

The Solution

Janice E. Hale, Ph.D., Professor, Founding Director of ISAAC, Wayne State University
Best Practices for Teaching African American Children

The Strategy

Godfrey J. Dillard, Esq., Lead Attorney,
Atlanta, Georgia
Detroit, Michigan

Preparing to FIGHT: What is the Lay of the Land?
Lessons for FIGHT from the U.S. Supreme Court
University of Michigan Affirmative Action Case